Sociology Student Spotlight

BRANDON NOGA

Brandon is a recent transfer student to UB, and says that sociology is a “perfect fit” for him. He became a sociology major to help him “pursue a career that will allow me to interact with others, and help influence positive change” on the world around him.

But Brandon doesn't have to wait until graduation; he is already making positive changes to the world around him. As a UB 101 Peer Mentor, he helps first-year students make their transition to college. He's also been invited to become a member of The National Society of Leadership and Success.

Brandon says he hopes to eventually teach sociology and conduct academic research as a college professor so he can “continue to be an active leader and help to influence others with an interest in sociology.”

Congratulations, Brandon!
