Sociology Student Spotlight

HALLE DATKO

Halle started UB as a medical technology major. She explains her decision to switch to sociology this way: “I realized that I just wasn't interested in the classes, and I wanted a field of study that gave me more freedom to choose my courses and that focused on thinking more critically about the world around me.”

After graduation, Halle plans to go to graduate school and study Forensic Psychology. She says she wants to work within the criminal justice system to improve the treatment of “all individuals as equal and to provide better rehabilitation for convicted offenders.”

Congratulations Halle!
